Dear Students and Parents/Guardians:

For your information, a Thom Collegiate staff member was charged and is currently under police investigation.

We are aware of this investigation and, along with the Regina Police Service, have taken swift and appropriate action and will continue to do so. At the same time, neither the school administration nor the school division can discuss this issue because of the ongoing investigation. We can say that the individual involved in this investigation has been assigned to home and is not in front of students.

Please be aware that you may hear a variety of stories on social media, or by word of mouth relating to this issue. As there is an active police investigation, be aware that any comment relating to this issue by staff, students or school families may need to be considered and investigated by police.

We recognize that this issue may evoke strong emotions. If you need to talk or wish to discuss this or any issue, you are encouraged to speak directly to Thom Collegiate administration and/or Guidance.

Please rest assured, when and if we can share any information relating to do this issue, we will.

Thank you for your understanding.

In Learning and in health,

Greg Enion
Director of Education
